

SHOP TALK

By RAY BROOKS

WE ASK IT

Though dedicated to the merchants and devoted to their gossip, their wares and their doings, large and small, this column has never come out bluntly and said, "buy canned tomatoes from this merchant or all-ver studded dog collars from that merchant."

That would hardly be cricket. But now there comes a case which, I believe, is worthy enough to destroy the precedent.

I'm speaking of Garcelon's Candy store, located at 1323 Sartori, in Whitney's Bakery.

Mrs. Garcelon set up the place a month ago and has tried hard to make it go. Certainly the town needs an establishment where fresh, fine grade chocolates, etc., may be purchased. But things have not gone so well with Mrs. Garcelon and yesterday she informed me that in a week or so she would have to take the fixtures out and quit.

Now that seemed like a shame to me. Then and there I resolved to solicit whatever aid I could through this column.

Is not the cause worthy? Do we not need a candy store?

Sure we do. So let's see if we can't drop in at Garcelon's this week or next and buy a few cents worth of candy. It's good candy, never fails.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

Harry Dolley, the "Battling Druggist," apprehended three young men one day last week at work on one of his marble machines with a small steel spring, which when inserted in the coin slot, kept the nickel from dropping into the box; hence, much fun with ONE nickel.

Grabbing the spring and the boy at one time, Harry looked about for some one to call the police. Just entering on the fountain side was "Strong Arm" "Lefty" Lipp, big razor and clipper man, who hurried to aid the "Battling Druggist."

But, as youth must have its fling, the boy flung off his would-be captors and almost tore off the screen door on his way out.

SUPER COOPERATION

Harvel Guttenfelder always manages to do alright for himself, but dumfounded and non-plussed was I last Friday p. m. when, on entering his "jerk" I witnessed a rather phenomenal exhibition.

There was Emma Quaggin, Mary Lou Kelly, Marie Marsteller and Margaret Guttenfelder putting in Harvel's Christmas window trim.

Wouldn't someone like to come over and help me sell an ad?

YOUTH'S DILEMMA

Young Weston Leech, manly, well trained young son of Mrs. Harriett Leech (flowers), was in an excited dither last Friday.

Mrs. Leech was in Arizona and Weston wanted to win a prize for his mom in the window trimming contest which was supposed to be judged Friday but was not. He did not know whether to dress the window with geraniums or rhododendrons (how do you spell that crazy word?). Not having either he used dendrobium brymerianum and cattleya trianae var. purpurata.

But maybe it was only laela elegans var. houteanas. Who am I to know?

HIGHPOCKETS

Most of the merchants have built their interior Xmas decoration so close to my head that invariably I scoop off tinsel and hanging tinsel with my hat. You

Mystery

Art Club Meeting Set For Dec. 9

The next meeting of the Torrance Art Club will be held in room 208 in the high school, at 7:30 p. m., Dec. 9. Working members will show and discuss their work, and an interesting program will be offered.

This will include an illustrated talk on "The Federal Arts Project" by Miss Vida Jones, and an exhibit of Mexican handicraft by Miss Ada Chase.

REPORTS CAR THEFT

Fred Woodhall, 1119 East 59th street, Los Angeles, reported to police here Friday night that his Chevrolet coach had been stolen from Clark's Draying Company garage on Border avenue.

can be sure that what I get is the opposite of blessed.

GOOD SIGNS

The sign reading "C. A. Paxman—Real Estate" on Paxman's windows was painted thereon exactly 20 years. Although it does show a bit of wear and tear, it was good paint that went into them; that sign! The words reading "Hardware" have been on only 16 years.

BEGINNER

Holand Blakeman, mustachised druggist of the RB Cut Rate, announces the arrival this week of one, Mrs. Thelma Wright, a new employee, who knows more about drugs, etc., than this writer knows about writing. (Do I see a curled lip and hear "That isn't much.") Mrs. Wright will help along during Christmas, then take Ralph Anderson's place after Jan. 1 when Ralph leaves for bigger and better jobs in bigger but not better cities.

WOLF! WOLF!

Like the old story about the boy who cried "Wolf," the siren atop the firehouse went blasting into the calm the other day, with so many toots everyone thought it was a first class, nine alarm fire.

Inquiry showed, however, that the boys were just tuning the old girl up a bit, thought that she didn't have quite the ungodly, nerve-shattering, citizen-disturbing screech she should have.

Chamber Abolishes City Hostess Job

By action of the Chamber of Commerce directors Monday the services of Mrs. Phoebe J. Milburn as city hostess were dispensed with, effective yesterday. Mrs. Milburn has asked The Herald to request all residents to call the Chamber office hereafter instead of her home for the services she has been rendering.

CORRECTION

In the advertisement of the National Home Appliances Co., appearing in this morning's Tri-City Shopper, prices of Galters & Sailer gas range, drink mixer attachment for Sunbeam Mixer were incorrect and the price of the slicer and shaver was omitted. Prices of these items as they appear in the Herald this afternoon are correct.

Twins' Birthdays Differ

PORTLAND, Ore. (U.P.)—Twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Woody, but their birthdays are in different months.

Car Keys Thieves' Specialty

SHELBY, O. (U.P.)—A wave of automobile key stealing, lasting several days, pushed police here to extra vigilance to halt the thefts before the cars followed.

Name Contributors To FDR Vote Fund

The following list of contributors to the national campaign for the re-election of President Roosevelt was announced yesterday by Mrs. J. J. O'Toole: A. H. Bartlett, Robert Leasing, James C. Thompson, Beverly Smith, William Klumstein, Clara Conner, George Probert, J. M. Christensen, John Rogers, Frank Smith, Monroe Intermill, Francis La Font, Jess Fain, Leonard D. Young, Grover C. Whyte and James J. O'Toole.

Old Bar Room Is Court Room of the closed Young's Hotel will be temporary scene of civil and criminal sessions of Boston municipal court.
